

FRANK MOORE'S FATE IS THREE IN MADISON-TWP. NOW IN HANDS OF JURY FAMILY HURT IN WRECK

FACES ONE TO 20 YEARS IF FOUND GUILTY

Eight Witnesses Called In
'Shooting With Intent To Kill' Case.

END CASE 9:30

Jurors Take Time Out For Lunch Then Reconvene.

The fate of Frank 'Fanny' Moore, first-ave, this city, indicted with shooting with intent to kill and shooting with intent to wound, rests in the hands of seven women and five men, a common pleas court jury.

The jurors were given the case at 9:30 a. m. Friday and early this afternoon had not yet completed their deliberations. They were excused at noon and given one hour for lunch. They again reported at 1 p. m. and were empaneled in the jury room.

The case against Moore was brought when he is alleged to have shot his sister-in-law Mrs. Mary Crider Moore during a party at the home of Harley Moore in First-ave. Mrs. Moore was holding her four weeks' old child in her arms while sitting in an automobile in front of the residence. She has recovered from her injuries and was one of the state's witnesses against the defendant.

EIGHT WITNESSES

Other witnesses called by the state were Clarence Moore, George Hine, Pauline Roop, Tom McCollister, Carrie Roop, Deputy Sheriff Miller M. Fissell, Officer William McCrady and Harley Moore. Prosecuting Attorney Emmett L. Crist announced Friday that if the jury finds Moore guilty the statutes provide a term of from one to 20 years in the Ohio Penitentiary whether he is found guilty of shooting with intent to wound or shooting with intent to kill.

R. L. Criswell represents Moore and Crist the State.

The jury is composed of Mrs. Anna Stevenson, Mrs. Francis Winfough, Mrs. Edna Dunkle, Mack Dowden, Mrs. Nelson Winfough, William Adkins, Charles Trone, Harry Clifton, Mrs. George Hamman, Mrs. Otto Busic, Mrs. Smith Hulse and Ray Bowman.

HOLD BOYS FOR CAR THEFT

Officer William McCrady went to Portsmouth Friday to return three youths who had admitted taking a Ford car from the streets here Thursday evening and leaving another Ford in its place. The boys are Roy Clair, John Dillon and Brun Mucil.

Police found a Ford car abandoned here out of gasoline and took it to police headquarters where it is now being held. It's license plate was issued in Newark.

The Ford car of Walter Gray was reported missing late Thursday night and police believe the youths may have stolen it.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Winifred Wallace, this city, was granted a divorce in common pleas court by Judge J. W. Adkins Thursday from Ralph Wallace, also of this city, on grounds of gross neglect of duty.

The plaintiff also was granted custody of Jo Anne Wallace, minor child.

Tom A. Renick was attorney for the plaintiff and C. A. Leist for the defendant.

RESTRAINT ORDER

John S. Baker, who filed petition in probate court for divorce against Nellie Brown Baker on grounds of gross neglect and extreme cruelty, was granted a temporary restraint restricting the defendant in menacing him in any way, by Judge E. A. Brown Thursday. The final hearing was set for Monday, Nov. 24.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Robert D. Hardwick, 22, Lancaster, decorator, and Ruth B. McColl 21, Ashville, house-keeper. E. C. Frieze, justice of peace.

George W. Shaw, 25, Columbus, book-keeper and Elda McManamy, 23, Circleville. Rev. Thomas Wilkinson, minister.

McGEE DIES

Funeral services for Talmer McGee, aged 81, of New Holland, who died Sunday at Athens State hospital, were held Tuesday in New Holland.

Wins Freedom in Husband Murder Trial

Pretty Helen Abernathy was acquitted of the murder of her husband, William, after the jury sitting on the case had deliberated two hours. The crime occurred on August 31 at Saratoga, N. Y. While Helen did not deny killing the man, she declared she was 'afraid of her life.'

FOUR HUNTERS HELD IN JAIL

Two Others Pay Fines and
Are Released On Different
Charges Thursday.

Four men are being held in the county jail for non-payment of fines assessed against them for violation of hunting laws.

They are Lee Weldon, Columbus, fined $25 and costs for hunting without a license.

Ray Wolford, $25 and costs for hunting without a license.

Lincoln Carnell, $25 and costs for hunting without a license.

Kenneth Grubb, $25 and costs for hunting without a license.

Prosecuting Attorney Emmett L. Crist announced Friday that if the jury finds Moore guilty the statutes provide a term of from one to 20 years in the Ohio Penitentiary whether he is found guilty of shooting with intent to wound or shooting with intent to kill.

R. L. Criswell represents Moore and Crist the State.

The jury is composed of Mrs. Anna Stevenson, Mrs. Francis Winfough, Mrs. Edna Dunkle, Mack Dowden, Mrs. Nelson Winfough, William Adkins, Charles Trone, Harry Clifton, Mrs. George Hamman, Mrs. Otto Busic, Mrs. Smith Hulse and Ray Bowman.

GOVERNMENT TAKES HAND IN GANG WAR

Federals Offered Services of Every Law Enforcement
Agency In Chicago.

CONVICT LEADER

Capone Aid To Get 15 Years
For Tax Evasion.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Spurred on by the concerted campaign of the Federal government to crush organized crime here, virtually every law enforcement agency in Chicago today was rallying its forces to break the power of gang rule.

Announcement of the Federal government's war against the rule of bomb and gun, made in Washington by Attorney General Mitchell, was greeted here with an enthusiastic response from city and state authorities.

Whole sale arrests of gangsters are anticipated.

The conviction of Jack Guzik, Capone business manager and public enemy was viewed by police and the "secret six" committee of the Association of Commerce as the most far-reaching blow dealt thus far to the Capone gang. Guzik faces a possible sentence of fifteen years in prison for income tax evasion.

It was revealed here that the federal authorities are being supported by the "fortifying and strengthening" of the various federal agencies.

GROUP BRANCHES
Assistant Attorney General William J. Froelich has been in Chicago for several weeks. Existing United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson to coordinate the various branches of federal service for the assault upon crime on all fronts.

Other investigators from Washington have been sent here, neither the attorney general nor the district attorney would disclose the number. The internal revenue department's intelligence unit, headed by A. P. Madden, has been reinforced with more agents. This unit brought about Guzik's conviction on income tax frauds and is regarded as the most effective of federal crime fighting agencies.

The government's major blow against tax dodgers will be struck through this medium it was revealed.

OFFICIAL NEXT

The next case scheduled for trial is that of State Representative Lawrence C. O'Brien. His case has been set ahead of such gangsters as Terry Druggan, Sam Guzik, Frank Nitti (the enforcer) and Frankie Lake to prevent his claiming legislative immunity when the house convenes in January.

"We hope Guzik's conviction presages more and even greater achievements of a similar nature," District Attorney Johnson commented after Guzik was found guilty.

One hundred law enforcement officers, judges, professors and civic leaders met at a police conference yesterday and united to cooperate whole heartedly in the war on criminal forces. Whether their help will be called on by the federal authorities remained a question.

The conferences adopted resolutions recommending a state clearing house for criminal records and urging adoption of the criminal code recently worked out by the American law institute.

TURKEY DINNERS TO BE PRINCIPAL HOLIDAY REPAST

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21.—Turkey dinners will be the principal repast in Ohio this Thanksgiving, according to present indications.

Those who know say that more families have placed orders for turkey this year than ever before.

Prices are cheaper—that's why. In Northern Ohio the fowls are selling around 35 cents per pound, dressed, in contrast to 55 cents a pound last year.

In Southern Ohio market, turkeys are quoted at seven cents per pound less than last year and 14 cents under the prevailing price of the war-time period.

Instead of losing its popularity as the chief article of meat for annual holiday, turkey seems to be gaining in Ohio homes.

RECEIVE BIDS ON ROAD WORK

Elimination of Dangerous Era
Crossing To Begin Soon;
Contract To Be Let.

It is expected that the contract for grade elimination, paving and construction of culverts on the Circleville-London road at Era will be awarded to Stellhorn & Beightler of Columbus on their bid of $123,463, according to an announcement from highway department office Friday.

This bid was the lowest received by the Ohio department.

The highway to be improved is Section F-2 on state highway 50.

The work will eliminate the bad crossing at the Baltimore & Ohio railroad at Era and will not cost Parkway-co a cent. The cost is being taken care of by Madison-co, the B. & O. railroad and the state highway department.

TERWILLIGER AT LONDON MEETING

LONDON, O. Nov. 21.—(SPL)—A review of the work that is being done by Rotary clubs throughout the world and an outline of the work of the present Rotary year, were given to the board of directors of the local club here Wednesday by Meeker Terwilliger, of Circleville, Ohio district governor of the organization.

It was Terwilliger's first official visit to London. He complimented the London Rotary on its attendance record and on the achievements for the past year.

Russell H. Knight, of Columbus, field manager of the Ohio Newspaper association, and Paul B. Taylor, of Springfield, were guests at the meeting.

Lutherans Have Annual Rabbit Supper Meeting

The annual meeting of the Lutheran Brotherhood, when the members of the congregation are entertained, was held at the Parish house Thursday night.

This annual affair comes each year when the rabbit season is on and rabbit was the main part of the menu Thursday night. Lots of rabbit and other good things to eat prepared by the master cooks George Hamrod, John Hummel, Ed Cies and Clarence Heiverson were served.

JIM COX SAYS ROOSEVELT TO BE CANDIDATE

Former Ohio Governor Booms
New York Governor for Democratic Choice.

DEMANDS REPEAL

Says Plank Will Be In Platform of Party In 1932.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—A prediction of a prohibition repeal plank in the Democrats' platform in 1932 which was made here by James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and candidate for president, aroused considerable discussion today.

Cox, who is in New York to attend the wedding of his son, James M. Cox, Jr., to Miss Helen Ramsey of St. Louis and Miami Beach, said he regarded the prospects for a Democratic victory in 1932 bright, provided the Democrats entered the battle "with no thought except the simple political philosophy of Thomas Jefferson."

Regardless of the dry south and the drifting away in the election two years ago of traditionally Democratic southern states, Cox said he thought a repeal plank would be voted by the Democrats.

BOOSTS ROOSEVELT

Regulation of public utilities, unemployment, water power and placing the nation on a sound economic basis through a scientific tariff worked out by experts, will be leading issues in the next election campaign, Cox predicted.

He said Owen D. Young and Newton D. Baker were being mentioned by Democrats as a presidential "candidate" but he thought Governor Roosevelt of New York loomed largest.

"It is of the utmost importance that something be done and done promptly to get rid of the feeling abroad out of which his grown what virtually amounts to a boycott on American products in the countries of Europe," Cox said.

"Any tariff act evolving to take the place of the tariff law now in force should be the work of economists and should take into consideration international trade, a subject that out present department of commerce, in my opinion, has not paid sufficient attention to."

The wedding of Cox, Jr., will take place today.

OHIO IN PATH OF BIG STORM

Expect Drop In Temperature
To Make Cold Week-End
Here; West Is Hit.

By International News Service
Lying in the path of a winter storm which is sweeping eastward Ohio will probably be abruptly robbed of its prevailing "Indian summer" weather this week-end and fall into the grip of wintry blasts, weather bureau officials predicted today.

Cloudiness covered most sections of the state today, presaging the onslaught of cold weather with its snow and sleet. And when the "cold spell" arrives this time, weather officials declared, it will come to stay until next spring.

Mercury registered a high mark of 69 degrees yesterday in Columbus: The mark was four degrees under the record of 73 degrees for November 20.

Weather officials deducted from their charts today that the coming cold snap will probably arrive late Saturday and to begin temperatures to freezing marks.

DENVER, Nov. 21.—A drop in temperature had today added to the discomfort of hundreds of motorists marooned by storms in the Rocky Mountain area. Train traffic was seriously impeded, rural and mining communities isolated and thousands of cattle burned by the snowdrifts.

Snowdrifts were deepest in the vicinity of Trinidad, Colo., where train traffic was held up on the main line of the Santa Fe, and thousands of dollars worth of damage was done when the roof of a garage crashed under the weight of the snow, burying scores of automobiles.

B. BUCKLEY IS SILENT

Refuses to Talk to Reporters
Stating That Parole Terms
Hold Him Accountable

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 21.—"I am on parole—I have nothing to say."

With these words, Bert B. Buckley, former state treasurer, returned to Ohio today from Atlanta federal penitentiary, where he has been serving a term for his part in a Cincinnati beer conspiracy.

But while restrictions sealed his lips, the former state official did have a few things to say.

Pointing to his wife, who came here from Columbus to greet her husband, Buckley remarked to reporters:

"This is the young lady who rolled up a vote of 105,000 for my sake."

Buckley, looking robust and apparently in the best of spirits, was met at the train by Mrs. Buckley and their two young daughters. All three were radiantly happy and the mother, appearing almost as youthful as her pretty daughters.

TO PRACTICE LAW
With the party was a young man who had come along to drive the family to Columbus, where the former treasurer indicated that he would return to the practice of law.

Efforts to induce the former state treasurer to talk about his conviction or his impressions of prison were cut short. Buckley explaining that, under the terms of his parole, he would be accountable for his words for another year.

Reporters had no difficulty, however, in seeing that his health had not been impaired, despite his 51 years. Buckley weighs well over the 220-pound mark and his immaculate attire could not conceal his portliness.

Buckley arrived shortly after 8 a. m. at the Louisville & Nashville station. Few persons were present, so he had no difficulty in finding his family. After exchanging kisses with his wife and daughters, he turned to reporters, as though eager to complete the ordeal of meeting them and get started toward Columbus.

WRECK JAPANESE WARLORD'S TRAIN

SHANGHAI, Nov. 21.—Scores were injured today in the derailment of a fast train near here in what is believed to have been a plot against the lives of Chang Liang and other high government officials.

Investigation revealed that part of a rail had been removed from the track. Apparently the plotters thought that the Mukden warlord and his party were aboard the express, which plunged off the track and deep into the roadbed and for a time interrupted train service between Nanking and Shanghai.

Chang decided to return directly to Mukden, thereby avoiding Shanghai.

EXTRA SESSION OF LAWMAKERS CAUSES WORRY

Sen. Watson Disagrees With
Idea That Extra Session
Is Necessary.

WASHINGTON Nov. 21.—The
pledge of some Democratic leaders
to co-operate with the Hoover administration will be given a severe
test at the coming "lame duck"
session of Congress. It appeared today as Insurgent and Democratic leaders urged the calling of the newly elected Congress into
special session next spring.

The Hoover administration will oppose a special session, which might be forced only through the defeat of the vitally necessary appropriation bills by filibustering or other dilatory tactics in the regular short session. Thus far, though both Insurgent and Democratic
spokesmen have denied any intention to filibuster but have insisted
there is so much legislation needed that a special session will be justified.

There are some indications the newly elected Congress would not convene before next fall. The presidential spokesmen for one thing
oppose either a spring or summer session of the new Congress. The opposition likewise has declared
against filibusters and has indicated its strategy will be to convince
the country that a special session
is necessary and then decamp
without forcing one, letting the administration "hold the bag."

WATSON DISAGREES

"I disagree entirely with the suggestion that a special session is necessary," Senator Watson, Republican leader of the Senate, declared. "If we can get any kind of co-operation from the Democrats
we will be able to clean up our legislative program at the regular short session. It will be better for the country to pass the absolutely necessary legislation and then allow some time to try out our remedies, before tackling any further legislative relief either for farmers or the unemployed."

Senator Borah (R) just back
from an overwhelming re-election
in Idaho urged passage of the debenture and the Norris Muscle
Shoals bill at the special session.
He said he feared these measures
might not be enacted at the short
session and that a special session
would be required. He insisted he would not join in filibustering tactics to force a special session.

"If the president and his administration would want to assume the responsibility for leaving a lot of legislation unacted
next spring," said Borah, "that will be their responsibility. I don't believe there will be enough time at the short session to give proper consideration to all the
measures requiring action."

Senator Walsh of Montana, assistant Democratic leader of the Senate, also said a special session
would be necessary next spring.
He too denied intentions of filib-ustering but added "It is simply a matter of so much legislation
awaiting action that cannot be settled at the short session, that a special session will be necessary."

SEA DISASTERS CAUSE ALARM

WASHINGTON Nov. 21.—Following a number of sea disasters
leading to heavy loss of life and property, steps have been taken by the government to reduce
the probability of maritime disasters through more thorough inspection of steamships.

There were three major disasters on Lake Michigan, the steamer Andaste, with a loss of 25 persons; the car ferry Milwaukee
which disappeared with a loss of 77 and the steamer Wisconsin
which sank with a loss of nine.

"In connection with the loss of the Andaste and Milwaukee a study is being made of radio conditions on the Great Lakes to determine whether the use of radio
should be extended," Hoover said.

During the fiscal year there were 171 accidents resulting in loss of life, a decrease of 89 from the preceding year. In this period there were 317,231 352 passengers carried on steam vessels
regulated by law to report on the number of accidents there was a total
property loss of $16,196,835.

COMPENSATION FOR SOLDIERS NOW ORDERED

Demands For Payment of Three Billion Rolling Into Members of Congress.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Demands for payment of soldiers' adjusted service compensation certificates in cash, totalling upwards of $3,600,000,000, are rolling in upon members of Congress from all parts of the country. It was disclosed today.

Returning members report that petitions have been received from many quarters, and definite movements are under way in many sections to create sentiment for the proposal.

Although the treasury has opposed the plan, the pressure behind the movement is such that it may become a live issue immediately after the session opens in December.

More than 30 members have introduced bills to this effect in the House and more bills are expected to be placed in the hopper early next month. The first move of backers of the movement will be a demand for a hearing before the House ways and means committee.

Rep. Wright Patman (D) of Texas, said today the proposal has gathered strength as a measure of speeding business by increasing the buying power of veterans. He has received reports that treasury experts are studying the situation in anticipation of congressional demands.

"Of the 1,101 a total of 1,311 veterans had borrowed money from the Veterans' Bureau on their adjusted service certificates out of $900,000 outstanding," said Patman. "Experts of the bureau estimate that borrowing from banks brings the total of veterans borrowing money up to 75 per cent of certificates of any considerable value."

The government now has about $700,000,000 in a sinking fund to meet the certificates upon maturity. A note issue of two billion dollars probably would be sufficient to give the veterans their choice of 80 per cent face value or keeping the certificates until maturity. The certificates could be retired by the treasury in five years.

"The certificate was based upon a debt to the soldier, to be paid in 20 years at 4 per cent interest. The government charges 6 per cent interest on loans to veterans, and this interest itself will almost discharge the government's obligation. The government has recently borrowed money as low as one and seven-eighths per cent interest."

"The average value of the certificate is $1013, and it is estimated that payment of the entire amount would immediately raise the money in circulation from $35 to $45 per capita, and thus provide a sufficient circulating medium to assure good times."

The American Legion has not taken a position on the proposal, but several other veterans organizations have endorsed it.

BOBWHITES ARE SAVED BY CORN

NEW YORK — Real-life drama of the wilds, a story prepared by the equal fellowship of the University of Wisconsin on its study of Bobwhite's struggles for survival against hunger and preying enemies during a cold Wisconsin winter, has definitely answered for the first time some of the biggest problems confronting sportsmen and scientists in their fight to bring quails back from scarcity to abundance.

Most important were discoveries that Bobwhite when well fed, can weather any winter and victorious match his wits against the talons of the fox and plunge of the hawk, and even, but that he loses resistance rapidly when failing in his constant battle for food, and that the food which gives him greatest strength is corn—corn on the cob, or otherwise.

Paul Errington, chief of the investigation, carefully watched 13 coveys of quail, aggregating 400 birds, widely separated in Dane, Sauk and Columbia counties. Of 106 corn feeding quail, 103 came through the winter in splendid condition. Of the three missing quail one was killed by a horned owl. The fate of the other two is problematical. The loss is considered trivial.

"The worst danger is hunger," he declared, "and the best and easiest way to overcome this is to distribute corn. Corn in the shock, tied around the top and rather widely spread at the bottom, so to form emergency refuge as well as food, is by far the most effective method yet observed. These preferably should be left at the south border of brushy woodlots."

Only one predator was found to require drastic control as a menace, even to well-fed quail. He is the big bluish goshawk, Mr. Errington said.

Healthy Bobwhites can and should take care of themselves. Farmers and sportsmen desiring to protect their game can best accomplish this by providing cover in which the game can seek its own safety, and by providing the food which enables the game to reach that cover when it has to," Mr. Errington concluded.

AVIATRIX LANDS

TOKIO, Nov. 21.—Completing her long flight by several stages from England to Japan, Mrs. Victoria Bruce of London landed her plane safely on Osaka airfield today.

Barring a minor mishap when she was forced down on the Persian Hills recently, the flight was made without difficulty.

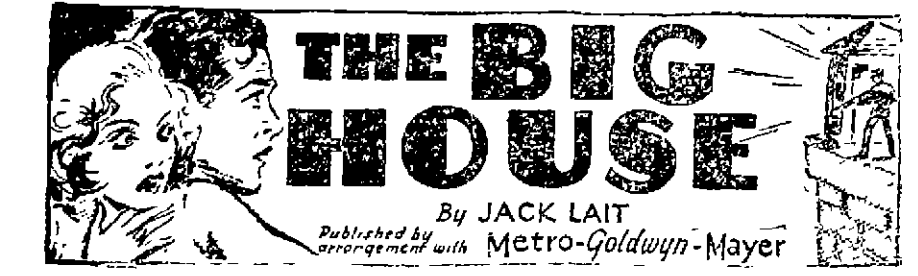

Haste makes waste, and speed costs lives.

POWER COMPANY

COLUMBUS, O.—The amended petition filed by the state utility commission by The Pickaway Light Company seeking permission to sue securities.

The company recently asked for authority to issue $1,000,000 of 7 per cent preferred stock and shares of common at $10 per share for the purpose of raising the proceeds in financing development of its rural electric distribution plant.

Today's amendment apparently requests authority to issue $500,000 in preferred stock, to be sold at par, and 556 shares of common stock, to be sold at $5 per share.

CHAPTER XVII

Down in the prison yard, Morgan found Butch—the same old happy-go-lucky Butch. He was talking to a group of his cronies. When he saw Morgan he slowly detached himself from the others and without any perceptible show of joy walked slowly toward him.

"Hello, ladybug, did you fly away home?" he greeted.

"Hello, Butch," Morgan felt a real affection for Butch. "I was fired right back again."

"They started walking along through the yard."

"How's all the dames, Morg? Did you give 'em my what's it?"

"Sure—all of them. They sent their whosies."

As they ambled along, this one and that called a greeting at Morgan. Most of them accepted in a matter-of-fact way his return among them. Morgan sensed an undercurrent of unrest in the air.

"There's some thing a cockeyed, Butch—what is it?" he asked.

Butch indicated the prison posters with a slight movement of his head. Morgan turned and looked. He saw nothing but the closed grill and the armed guard pacing the other side

2 HUNTERS ARE 'MEANEST MEN'

NEW YORK —Everybody everywhere at one time or another has dreamed of being "the meanest man in the world." But it was left for officials of the American Game Protective Association to find the two "meanest men" together, working the slickest ruse ever laid at the door of the sport of hunting.

These men went hunting in a farmer's posted woodlot near Roxbury, Conn., relates the Ridgefield (Conn.) Press. There one fired three shots in quick succession.

The farmer grabbed his trusty shotgun and rushed to warn off the intruders. But he searched the woods in vain. The hunters had apparently gone.

With renewed peace and equanimity, the farmer returned to his barnyard. He found that while searching the woods the 'hunters' had shot six of his prize fowls and carried them away.

The connivers of this episode of "fool play" are the "meanest men" the official is claimed because of the far-reaching harm brought upon all true sportsmen, upon the farmers themselves and upon wild life by pot-hunting poachers of that ilk.

Unlucky gun-toters," they said, "are working more havoc than any other force in cutting down hunting areas and retarding the progress of game restoration."

"When a farmer tires of such antics," he says, "he turns his back on hunters," the official declared. "He is hurting himself as well. He lets the game suffer from his lack of interest and thereby loses off an increasing income from this valuable resource."

These sportsmen everywhere," they pointed out, "are trying to enlist the farmer as one of the major factors in the nation-wide efforts to bring back an abundance of wild life. Though all game is owned by the government, and can not be marketed, sportsmen of today are trying to assure the farmer a fair return from his labor in conservation and restoration work."

against all hunters," the official declared. "He is hurting himself as well. He lets the game suffer from his lack of interest and thereby loses off an increasing income from this valuable resource."

Though all game is owned by the government, and can not be marketed, sportsmen of today are trying to assure the farmer a fair return from his labor in conservation and restoration work."

INSPECTION WEEK AT WILDER STORE

Wilder's Cash store which has occupied the rooms at 159, 161 W. Main-st for many years has now moved their entire stock into the west room, 161 W. Main-st.

The room has been completely remodeled, stock has been rearranged to better advantage for the purchaser and the consolidation and better arrangement makes it much more convenient, not only for the purchaser but for the sales people.

Beginning Saturday and continuing one week they will have an inspection week. During the week special prices will prevail on many items in stock and Mr. Wilder invites all his old and new customers to visit them during their inspection week.

"Y'see," explained Butch, "every day he has been going to this gate with a bunch of flowers he picks in the garden. The screw opens the gate to get them."

"Six of us is going to stroll through that gate."

"You're crazy!"

"I'm giving it to you straight, Morg. Me and Joe framed it."

"Joe? I thought he was a trusty?"

"He is—but he's a con like you and me. His old bean is being bustled. It's his idea," Butch paused and looked around. "There he goes now—pipe him off."

Joe was double-timing toward the gate. When he reached it, he was rapped and the guard halted. Joe held up a bunch of flowers. The guard took them through the bars and Joe, smiling and nodding his head, walked away.

"See?" enthusiastically urged Butch.

Morgan shook his head. He could find no significance in this bit of soft pantomime.

"Y'see," Butch explained, "Every day for three months he's been going to that gate with a bunch of flowers he picks in the garden. That screw's used to him now—don't think nothing of it."

"Well? No more do I."

"Gee you're dumb, Morg. Well, every once in a while there's a big bunch of flowers... and the screw has to open the gate—sawvy?"

"I got it—some morning he'll open the gate and six of you'll crash through—very simple." His tone was ironic.

"What could be simpler?" Butch spoke with all the naïveté of a child. "What comes off after you come through?"

"Then we bust through the outer gate—the cell's be warden" on the outside."

Morgan looked at him in astonishment, but asked merely:

"When does all this come to pass?"

"Thanksgiving day—at noon! Most of the screws is off then—for that hot turkey. An' you'll see it to 'em cold turkey—a la mode."

Butch laughed and and loud, and then quickly rearranged himself as one of the guards turned suddenly.

"Butch, you're nuts. If you could suddenly it's the ch—"

"What the hell's the difference?" Morgan asked here the rest of me life anyway."

"Oh, he's in on it."

"Oh, ain't the Hawk... Dopey..."

"The Hawk—that means blood and nothing less."

"Now," Butch appeared hurt at the suggestion. "He swore he won't slip nobody."

"Huh! He croaked his own mother."

"Sure he did," Butch was sympathetic. "He cut the old buster's

Too Terrible

ANOTHER football season has passed on to wherever it is that sports seasons go when they have run their allotted course. In many respects it was a highly successful season. The crowds and the gate receipts were larger than ever, and that means the latter were fabulous. It produced no "Red" Granges but added several noteworthy names to the Who's Who of the gridiron. And it had its full quota of upsets, which, after all, are what give the game its eternal and irresistible appeal.

It is not enough in these days of detailed analysis to say this or that team simply played beyond itself. One thinks rather of the doctrine to which William James was firmly committed—namely, that in each man are capacities for greater than he realizes or generally uses. In an emergency he may perform tremendous physical feats, think with amazing celerity and shrewdness or endure privations incredible in ordinary life.

Thus need for an addition to the football coaching staff is obvious. Better football will come when the psychological departments of the several colleges show the teams how to get completely into the game with minds utterly alert, muscles ready with triple strength and determination hardened into heroic passion.

But would this envisioned super-football be better football? It might be more like a battle between immortal heroes in Scandinavian mythology. And the only reason those fellows were not all killed in the first charge was that they were immortal. Even from the remote rim of the stadium the warriors in moleskin, without drawing upon that potential strength of which James wrote, seem to be fighting fiercely enough.

Anyway, rains seem to fall on the just more than the unjust. Sunday schools have most of the pieties.

A Preventive Needed

THE problem of crime is a problem of adolescent youth. Eighty-five percent of criminals are young men and women between eighteen and twenty-five years of age.

The child acts upon impulse—to him the present is everything, he has none of the fears and experiences of the past to warn him and he has no prospective of the future. He is reckless of the consequences.

Criminal careers are progressive. Rarely is a murder or even robbery of burglary the first offense. The criminal career does not always appear on the court records, because crime goes largely undetected and criminals lie to judges and prison officials.

Most criminal careers begin in early youth. As a rule there is a progression from thoughtless rowdiness to petty larceny or embezzlement, then to robbery and burglary, and then often to murder. The question is, why do these youngsters first break away and how can this evolution be prevented?

Many criminologists seem to be of the opinion that the evolution can be checked and prevented and crime can be stamped out by the simple process of dealing harshly with the convicted criminal. They enthusiastically announce that the gallows and the lash will cure everything. They scornfully brand as visionary, idealistic and sentimental all those who differ with them. They fail to realize that the adherents to the policy of punishment and punishment alone may be as idealistic as those who place the chief emphasis on prevention.

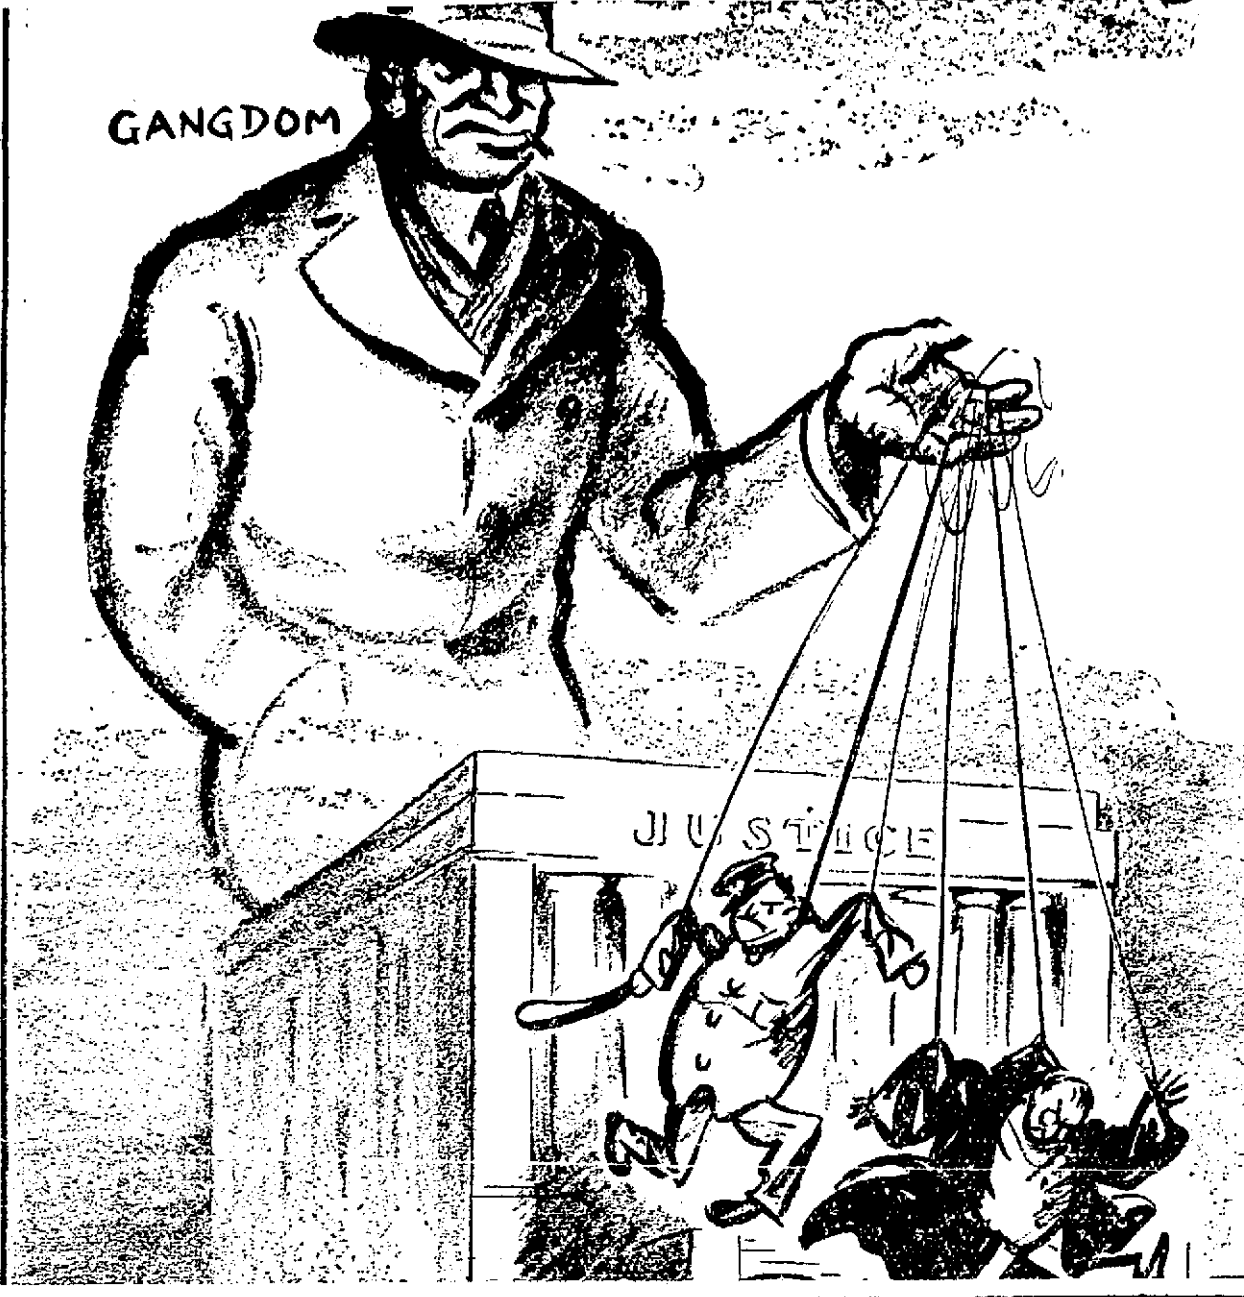

But the fact remains that after centuries of punishment and torture, hanging and electrocutions and decapitations, whipping posts and solitary confinement, prisons and prison camps, crime has increased and criminals become more bold and murderous. When the cure fails it is time to find a preventive.

Once divorced old reason from reason, which shows there was a time when reason had something to do with divorce.

ABOVE THE LAW

GIRL UNAFRAID BY GLADYS JOHNSON

ARDETH CARROLL works in a shop and is being wooed by Neil Burke. Her home life is far from pleasant. She lives with an aunt and a snooping girl cousin.

Bet-Consumed by Jealousy—Chides Ardeth About Neil.

CHAPTER II.

ARDETH hated this room which she shared with Bet. Hated the "golden oak" bed and dresser, scratched and warped with the years. The worn carpet. The broken-armed rocker. All the little softening touches the room owed her. The pink-shaded lamp on the dresser—Neil had given her on her last birthday. The cretonne curtains—three Sundays had gone into their making. The pink bedspread—that had taken the savings of a month.

About the frame of the mirror, little photos of her Sunday outings. Pictures Neil had taken. One of herself feeding the swans in the lake. She was looking up and laughing. That was her last Easter dress. She'd sewed on it for a month and she had saved for it for three.

Her father had named her Ardeth. As Aunt Stel succinctly remarked, "He would!" It was indicative of Jim Carroll's love of the strange and the beautiful, even in sounds. Ardeth was amazingly like her father—which was perhaps Aunt Stel's chief reason for disliking her. You don't care to have a reminder of your secret and hopeless love underfoot day and night, though you deny that love, even to yourself.

Jim Carroll had worn that same look of gay courage. That almost rapt air of gazing at some brave sight hidden from others. Charming had played like a flame within him—an unconscious magnetism which drew hearts to him as a light draws moths.

The flame of him had drawn the pretty pale moth of Ardeth's mother. She had married this golden boy of hers—had borne him a golden child. And in her secret heart she had never ceased to marvel that Jim Carroll had ever wanted to marry her at all. It had lent her a dazed, slightly breathless air at times.

She never had understood the child joy of life in him. She was content merely to idolize him. A frail, slightly pathetic figure. Then Carroll had been, swung violently through life by the blazing comet of his love. She lived only in the vivid flame of her marriage, and when that flame went out, she was left a cold, empty shell.

Ardeth Thrilled in Meeting With Idol of Her Dreams

deth had learned to dread the black moods of Neil. She strove gallantly now to put the situation on a lighter plane. "Oh, it's gorgeous to be out in the sunshine!" She smoothed the pleats of her short skirt. "Go out with the other cars."

It was the first bright day after a week of fog. The park highways were crowded—sedan and limousine; snappy roadster and cut-down Ford. Little of the snob in the heart of Ardeth, however. The big silent cars spinning past moved her to admiration, not envy. Enough to be alive and happy in the sunshine today. To know one was pretty and young. To feel this secret thrill of expectancy... holding one's breath. It was, in a way, waiting for something glorious to happen.

The cars were checked. The equestrian path crossed the highway here, and the traffic officer was permitting the riders to cross. Sleek proud horses carrying sleek proud people. They moved through a different world, these high-stepping horses and the men and girls they carried, thought Ardeth.

That blonde girl there in the linen trousers and black coat... a pretty girl, and so sure of herself. Look at her turn and speak to the man on the bay mare beside her.

That man! Ardeth found herself sitting tense—leaning forward, her heart in her eyes. A tall and laughing young fellow—riding so easily. The sun gleaming on his brown hair, flashing on his white smile.

As though the intent gaze of the girl drew his, the young fellow suddenly looked over. His eyes plunged deep into the eyes of the girl as he went by.

At her side, Ardeth heard Neil draw in his breath jealously. A moment only, while the riders filed by in the sunshine. A breath of time, when the man on horseback looked deep into the eyes of the girl in the cut-down Ford. Yet in that moment the world had changed for three people.

When the traffic signal was given to go ahead, Neil jammed in the gears viciously. It joined Ardeth back to reality.

The girl's expression was dazed. Here—all unexpected—he had come riding toward her through the morning sunlight. After all this time she had seen him. And how oddly he had looked at her, as though he too had known her—had recognized the moment.

Neil's bitter voice cut across her thoughts. "Well, I suppose you're happy now that you've seen your Stanford fellow again."

The girl's face crimsoned. "I don't know what you mean—" "Oh, yes, you do," he answered roughly. "Think I didn't see your face when he went by? Look here—have you been seeing him? Have you gone out with him? Have you?"

Insomnia Is

Often a

Habit

Go to Bed with a Mind Clear of Problems and Cares, Urges Authority, and Open Windows

By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.

U. S. Senator from New York. Former Commissioner of Health New York City.

NOTHING is more disturbing than going to bed at night and not being able to sleep. It makes the night hideous and ruins the happiness of the following day.

Sleeplessness or insomnia is largely a matter of habit. A bad habit. Excessive fatigue, worry, lack of fresh air and physical exercise, are the main causes leading to insomnia. One should acquire the habit of absolutely dropping work and cares at bed-time.

I have told you of Mr. Henry Clews who said he made Fourteenth Street the dividing line in his life. He would not permit himself to think of business when he reached that street on his way home at night.

People resort to all sorts of methods to induce sleep. The counting of sheep and other such is a staid mental games have been tried by all of us, but usually without beneficial results.

If you are restless and cannot sleep do not worry about it. Dwelling on the thought that you are having difficulty in sleeping will keep you awake. Relax in bed, and even if you are awake, you are affording rest to your body. Rest will come only with relaxation and that will be followed by sleep.

Sleep is Nature's way of rejuvenating the body. Sleep should be sufficient in duration and it should be uninterrupted. The average number of hours of sleep required by an adult is from seven to nine hours. Growing children require more sleep than adults.

Sleep comes most readily when the stomach is practically empty. If the drinking of water induces bladder action during the night, it is better to avoid late drinking. Where possible sleep outdoors or in a room open to fresh air. Outdoor sleeping is more restful and beneficial than indoor sleeping.

Never take drugs for sleeplessness. Once you start relying on medicine for sleep, you begin a habit that is often difficult to break.

Plenty of exercise in the open during the day is essential for good sleep at night. Let your evening meal be a wholesome one without spices and condiments. Avoid all stimulants.

Let me repeat—make sure there is plenty of fresh air in your bedroom. You can be assured of this if all the windows of your sleeping chamber are open.

A warm bath just before going to bed is a great aid in relaxing the body and preparing for a good night's sleep. Sleep may be encouraged by drinking a glass of warm milk.

If you are worried and cannot relax in bed it is often a good plan to read something diverting. Do not read exciting books in an attempt to relax. A book that requires concentration will help you quiet the mind and induce sleep.

If you continue having insomnia in spite of these measures consult with your physician. Continued lack of sleep is injurious to the body. There are many nerve disorders that cause insomnia. Such disorders should be under the personal supervision of your physician.

The first grade teacher in the Five Points public school resigned and Miss Lois Ater has been employed to fill the vacancy.

Theatres

AT THE MET

Yakima Canutt, bar of "Canyon Hawks", showing now at the Met Theatre, is already faced with the problem of having an extra room in his home as his collection of medals, cups and plaques is growing so large as to become absolutely cumbersome.

"Yak" has long been walking off with rodeo honors and anyone who has ever seen a rodeo of any size has seen "Yak" perform. He is worlds' champion all around cowboy; winner of the coveted Roosevelt Trophy at both Cheyenne, Wyoming and Pendleton, Oregon in 1923; winner of the Bronco riding championships in Pendleton in 1917 and 1919, in Canada in 1919, in Chicago in 1921, in Fort Worth 1921, 1922, 1923; winner of the Tex Austin Championship Belt for Bulldozing at the Yankee Stadium in New York City in 1923.

AT THE CLIFTONA

The story of "Dough Boys", which will open Friday at the Cliftona Theatre, is the work of Al Boasberg and Sidney Lazarus with Boasberg and Richard Schayer contributing dialogue.

Sally Eilers plays the heroine and Cliff Edwards, Edward Brophy, Victor Patel, Arnold Korff, Frank Mayo, Pitzzy Kutz and William Steele are in the cast.

Sedgwick believes that the new pictures will show Keaton in a different light from any of his former comedies. A romantic love story runs through it and the thrills are all actual until a Keaton blunder turns them to laughs.

AT THE GRAND

"The Fall Guy," Radio Pictures' comedy-drama which opened at the Grand theatre yesterday, is everything the stage success was, and more.

The original play, which set a long-run record in New York, was funny, gripping and human. The screen version is all of that, with the added intimacy and warmth which only a well directed talking picture can give.

The story is a happy combination of gripping situations and chuckles and the ending leaves the audience a delightful sense of really having been entertained.

WILLIAMSPORT

Mrs. Nellie Wallace and Miss Carrie Rector were Circleville shoppers on Friday.

Mrs. Harry West will be hostess to her bridge club next Thursday evening.

Relatives from Illinois were guests of the Baker families, part of last week.

Earl Cook left Saturday for Fort Worth, Texas where he will visit his brother C. Albert Cook.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cochard and daughter Miss Carolyn of Circleville, attended O. E. S. meeting here Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vlerebome of Lancaster will be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hurst next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Anderson and family are moving from the Bennett farm to the Bazzore property in Williamsport.

BEARS ARE MANY IN FEDERAL PARK

NEW YORK—Bears in Yellowstone National Park have reached the peak which their numbers should be permitted to maintain, says superintendent Roger W. Toll. This means that about 30 black bear and 10 grizzlies will have to be "controlled" or disposed of by park rangers each year. It is claimed that a larger number than there are at present would be a menace to visitors and that the natural food supply is insufficient for more than the present number which is 180 grizzly bear and 450 black bear.

There are of other large animals in the park, 650 antelope; 1133 buffalo; 150 mountain sheep; 700 moose; 10,600 elk; 800 deer. The problem of disposing or caring for the excess over the maximum number of game animals that the park can support is a major one.

The elk find abundant summer range in the park but their food problem is in lack of winter range, which is in lower country outside the park where the elk are in competition with live stock ranges and where great losses from starvation have frequently occurred.—AMERICAN GAME PROTECTIVE ASSOCIATION.

Harvard-Yale Contest To Re-
new Rivalry; Eli Strongest
But Never Can Tell.

NEW YORK, Nov. 21.—In Tudor skirt in darkest Africa, in the sides of Paris, way out west in the sides of Nevada—in fact, around the world and back again, some hearts will beat a little faster on Saturday. Wherever there are memories will revive old scenes
with the vibrant thrill of actual
and stories of valor and death,
headed down from generation to generation will pulse again in fond remembrance—for Harvard is playing Yale.

That is tradition and no matter
what one says or thinks of the

had whooping cough and later came down with measles.

"She was having a hard time until
our doctor recommended California
Fig Syrup and I got her some. Fig Syrup helped her remarkably. She is now perfectly strong; has a good appetite and digestion; is quite the picture of health as you can see."

For over 50 years, California Fig
Syrup has been helping bilious,
headachy, weak, constipated babies
and children. Doctors by thousands recommend this pure vegetable product. Children love its flavor. It acts gently to open the bowels in colds

football teams of Yale and Harvard that meet Saturday afternoon
in New Haven, tradition will have its way, throwing a mellowed glow
and fervor around the game so
that it reeks with all the fine conception and historic lore of an old cathedral. If you don't believe it,
well, New York is sending 21 special trains to New Haven on Saturday.

TRADITION HAS ROLE

And tradition will indeed play a
heavy role this weekend particularly for Cambridge, for without its bolstering and ballyhoo, the sons of John Harvard would have little on which to fling aloft their red banners. The Harvard warriors have a doleful record that reveals defeats by Army, Dartmouth, Michigan and Holy Cross and even
a tie with tiny but valiant William and Mary.

And yet when Yale meets Harvard or Princeton, all of the past
must be forgotten. Yale so discovered last week when the New Haven team was outplayed by a
hitherto milk-fed and complacent Tiger. Down the chute for all performances that have gone before,
for in this Saturday's game, masks
are torn off, hitherto unknown and unsuspected strength is called in-
to action and what was weak becomes mighty, the slow and imperfect now are equipped with mercury's fleetness and the dumb turn wise overnight.

HARVARD UNDERDOG

This year Harvard of course is
the under dog and the chances are
the crimson will cast aside all the convention and calmness that
has marked its rather ragged
play during the season and resort
to a bold air game in an effort to win.

Last week Trix Bennett, Princeton quarter, was the thorn in the Blue's side and this week Barry
Wood may be the Yale briar. Wood has had an unfortunate season. He has not directed the Crimson with any of the generalship that might have been expected from
him and he has almost failed completely in attaining the threat he promised last season with the forward pass. He showed some fine passes in the Michigan game and if he is in that same form Saturday he can outpass Albie Booth or Taylor to a Harvard win.

Bennett showed last week that Yale was a sucker for the flat pass
and Harvard will feature this pass,
as Wood is an adept pass player
and shines particularly in bullet-
like short passes.

Harvard, first to develop the lat-
teral pass, intends to use this formation again against Yale, even though it has not proved especially effective as exhibited by the Crimson this season.

If, as some expect, the game develops into a purely air affair, the chances would favor Harvard, superior to the blue on both offense
and defense in the air. The Crimson proved this against Michigan,
showing a brilliant air offense and
almost entirely stopping the wyeter's much-heralded overhead attack.

There is nothing new under
the sun, but there's a lot of new stuff in moonshine.

Bobcat, Bishop Contest Holds Focus of Ohio

BY JOSEPH K. RUKENBROD.

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21.—The eyes of Ohio's football fandom
turned toward Soby Stadium at Delaware today and waited enthusiastically for the gridiron
classic of the Buckeye state.

Probably the most important
game of the year will be held there Saturday afternoon when the Ohio University Bobcats defend their Buckeye A. A. conference championship against the Battling Bishops of Ohio Wesleyan.

It will truly be a classic, bringing together two of the best elevens in the state. Only Heidelberg, the one undefeated and un-
tied team in the state, can share
honor with Ohio and Wesleyan
this year.

Wesley Fesler and company of Ohio State, which usually occupies
the center of the football stage,
will be out of the picture Saturday. The Buckeyes trek to Champaign, Ill., for their annual clash
with Bob Zupke's Illini.

FAVOR BOBCATS

Ohio, undefeated to date for the second consecutive season, appears to be well on the way for
another title and the highest honors in the state. The Bobcats'
record was smeared a little, earlier

in the season when a sturdy band
of griders from West Liberty
Normal fought the Green and White on even terms. That 13-13
draw is the only spot so far on a remarkable record.

Coach George Gauthier of Ohio
Wesleyan will depend on his backfield stars to stop the Athenians.
His ball-carriers are among the best in the state. They are Ervin Carlisle, quarterback; Edgar West-
fall and Roderick Campbell, half-backs, and Howard Ginaven, fullback.

Although they have kept their Buckeye conference record clean,
the Bishops went down to defeat
early in the season before the onslaught of Ted Turney's Student Princes of Heidelberg.

That set-back, delivered by a former Ohio Wesleyan star and a pupil of Gauthier, gives Ohio the favorite track in the championship battle.

HOST OF STARS

Coach Don Peden has a host of stars on his Bobcat outfit this year. In fact he has so many star ball-toters that his backfield
problem is causing him a lot of worry.

Jerry Warshower, playing his final season, has been crowding
Clark Gabriel, quarterback for honors in recent contests and may
win the right to start as field general. Maurer still has an opportunity to replace Sintic at halfback, although the latter has been an outstanding plunger in every game in which he played.

Ray 'Piggy' Hart fullback, who was injured in the game with Muskingum last Saturday, will be at his post anxious to close his college career in a starring role against the Bishops. Thus far he has easily outshone any fullback
on teams which Ohio has opposed.

Athens will be deserted Saturday from all appearances. Hundreds of Athens football enthusiasts and practically the entire student body are planning to attend the game. A special train
will take students and the crack
100-piece Ohio band to Delaware
for the invasion of the Bishop camp.

LINE TROUBLES ROCKNE OUTFIT

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—Three
scorching western conference battles notwithstanding, middle west
football fans today were gazing
pop-eyed in the direction of Dycie
stadium where the Notre Dame-Northwestern gridiron classic will be niled out this Saturday.

It will be no second-rate affair,
this fight between the Wildcats
and the fighting Irish who have become the football wonder of the country.

In fact it is a battle that to all intents involves the mythical national football championship, for Northwestern has gone through a hard season undefeated and with the western conference crown in its possession while Notre Dame has met and conquered some of the teams in the country.

GLOOM THICKENS

As the two aggregations draw closer to Saturday afternoon's
kickoff the gloom grows thicker in the camp of Knute Rockne down at South Bend, Ind. while a serious
confident squad of Wildcats work
and plot with vim that presages a busy afternoon for the Notre Dame Ramblers.

Rockne's men know enough

about football to be concerned at
the twenty pound weight advantage Northwestern's fast charging
line is going to hold over them.
Another thing, they look upon the loss of "Jumping Joe" Savoldi with more than passing concern, for it was Savoldi's weight, speed, hard blocking, elusive side-stepping and versatility offensively and defensively that is needed to cope with Northwestern's style.

Psychologically Northwestern
holds an advantage, if slight. Notre Dame, with the Army and Southern California yet to be met, will have to take this Northwestern
clash in its stride while Northwestern has nothing more to look forward to and can give their last
burst of enthusiasm, trick plays
and what not.

DRAKE TOUGH

Rockne's men met an unexpected show of strength against Drake
Saturday and the first string eleven emerged with injuries which have proven more serious than any
received in the Pitt or Pennsylvania struggles. For this reason
there has been no scrimmage in
the Irish camp this week, nor will

there be. The Notre Dame mentor has concentrated his efforts on building up a strong pass defense
to halt the heaves of Bruder and Hanley to Baker, Northwestern
end and scoring ace of the Big Ten.

The Wildcats has proven to be a hard-blocking, fast charging
crew this year, with two powerful tackles, Marvil and Olipant, who are expected to cause Rockne's
shift-offense much trouble. Rockne's hip-hip and away offense delegate, the end to take out the defensive tackle alone. Maybe the Irish ends can do it and if they can't it will be too bad for Messrs.
Rockne, Carideo, Brill, Conley and
the rest.

Northwestern's superior strength
told heavily on Wisconsin in the second half last Saturday and the Badgers' line was not considered weak, nor puny. Rockne saw all this as a spectator and, the boys

say, he squirmed somewhat uneasily.

THE NEW CHEVROLET SIX HAS MANY IMPROVEMENTS

The introduction of the new Chevrolet Six marks the most impressive forward
step in Chevrolet's twenty-

year record of constant progress and improvement. For this Bigger and Better Six offers new beauty, new luxury, new completeness
and new quality—yet it sells at lower prices!

In every curve and sweep of Chevrolet's
modern lines—in every detail of its new Fisher bodies, you will see the fine hand of the master designer and the skillful crafts-
man. And the more closely you inspect it,
the more deeply impressed you will be.

The improvements in the new Chevrolet Six
begin at the smart new chrome-plated head-
lamps and extend throughout the entire car.
The radiator is deeper. The lines are longer
and lower, giving an air of exceptional fleet-ness and grace. And the interiors of the new Fisher bodies provide a new degree of

comfort and luxury; greater roominess; fine
quality mohair or broadcloth upholstery;
more pleasing interior fittings; and a new,
completely equipped instrument panel.

The chassis of the new Chevrolet Six has also been refined and advanced in a number of different ways. The frame is heavier, deeper and stronger than before. There is a smoother operating, long lived clutch; a sturdier front axle; an entirely new steering
mechanism; an easier shifting transmission.
In fact, every vital feature of the new car has been made better to provide more thorough
satisfaction for the owner.

And along with these improvements, Chevrolet offers the smooth performance of a 50-
horsepower, six-cylinder motor—four long
semi-elliptic springs—four hydraulic shock
absorbers—a safety gasoline tank at the rear of the car—and an economy of operation not surpassed by any automobile.

• • AT NEW LOW PRICES • •

Fine as it is, the new Chevrolet Six now sells at lower prices—making the economy and satisfaction of Chevrolet ownership even more outstanding. We urge you to come in and see the Bigger and Better Chevrolet. Its modern design reflects the spirit of the times—and it represents a value which will command the interest of every buyer in the low-price field.

OBITUARY

Arthur Paul Merriman, youngest son of John and Emma Hedges Merriman, was born near Kingston December 28, 1905 and on November 11, 1930 departed this life on the U. S. S. Hospital ship near San Pedro, California, aged 24 years, 10 months and 13 days.

At an early age he became a member of the M. E. Church and was a regular attendant at the church and Sabbath School. He attended the Pickaway Centralized School and Kingston High School.

In 1922 he enlisted in the Navy and has spent the last eight years in service, two years on board the U. S. S. West Virginia and the last six on the U. S. S. Lexington upon which the accident occurred that resulted in his death. He had become an engineer of the First class and was highly spoken of by his Captain and his Shipmates. His Division Officer, Lieutenant Read, spoke thus of him: "We, who have served with him, feel that the Navy has not only lost a valuable man but that we each personally have lost a very dear friend. He was always ready to do his share and more in work or play and was a friend to us all in the truest sense of the word."

Besides his parents he leaves to mourn their loss, two brothers, Ivan L. of Circleville, Wood of Kansas City, five sisters, Mrs. H.

E. Gatten and Mrs. A. M. Selfert of Columbus. Mrs. Albert Lemmon of Obetz, Mrs. Ira G. Blain of Ripley and Ada at home, besides numerous relatives and friends.

Sunset and evening star

And one clear call for me.

And may there be no moaning of the bar.

When I put out to sea.

But such a tide as moving seems asleep

Too full for sound or foam.

When that which drew from out the boundless deep

Turns again home.

Twilight and evening bell

And after that the dark.

And may there be no sadness of farewell,

When I embark;

For, though throughout the bourn of time and place

The flood may bear me far,

I hope to see my Pilot face to face

ELECTRIC CO. ERECTS SIGN

The Southern Ohio Electric Co. erected a new electric sign at its office at 114 E. Main-st. The sign is double-faced and reaches the entire height of the building. It is a flasher type sign and uses 232 lamps.

The border consists of 234 red and green lamps which flash on and off, controlled by an automatic flasher. The sign itself is brilliantly colored in green, yellow and blue and has the name "Southern Ohio Electric" in white letters which are illuminated and which also flash off and on.

This is a big addition to commercial Circleville and is an up-to-date move on the part of the company which always aims for improvement for the betterment of Circleville.

MAY LAY OFF HIGHWAYMEN

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 21.—Most highway maintenance and repair men will be "laid off" for the rest of the winter if a deficit of maintenance funds is revealed at the conference of highway engineers here, State Highway director Robert N. Waid declared today.

Waid pointed out that early this year it was estimated that approximately $40,000,000 would be available to the highway department from the state gas tax. Recent reports, however, have indicated that receipts from the gas tax are falling off and that much less than $40,000,000 will be available to the highway department.

The highway director was optimistic, however, regarding the condition of the maintenance fund and he declared that such emergency work as is now being done on highways throughout the state will be finished before any employees are "laid off."

A "lay off," Waid said would not be unusual, since the maintenance division usually slacks down in its work about the first of November each year. The usual winter, however, combined with the unemployment situation and the drought conditions, have kept the division "working overtime" this year, he said.

Mrs. Turney Weldon and Mrs. Harry Hefner were in Columbus, Thursday.
